PREFACE TO THE SECOND EDITION.

THE Author must express his regret at this little work having been out of print for a time. His excuse is the unexpected rapidity with which the First Edition was absorbed by the public. It is, however, satisfactory to know that the book is fulfilling the purpose for which it was written; and has already become, in a great measure, the book, which even those who must eventually know the vernacular character, read, in order to gain a rapid knowledge of the construction of the language, and a large stock of guaranteed words and phrases. Nothing is then left but to study the Vernacular Alphabet.

The present volume is larger than its predecessor. This is because many complaints reached the Author that there was too little in the book. The cry was for more. This is a good sign. But, on the other hand, there were complaints of inability to remember words only 'once given' in the course of the "Lessons." The collecting of all words given in the body of the book into the Glossaries at the end, is one cause of the increased size.

Another is that the number of Exercises has, on demand, been largely added to, implying the introduction of many additional words.

It has been considered proper to retain in the body of the book the lists of words there given, though now also to be found in the Glossaries. They are selected words which, in the opinion of the Author, one must know ; and whether one learns them or not as they stand above the Exercises—one certainly would never learn them, if they stood only in a “ Dictionary.”

Perhaps the humble “ Index ” deserves mention. Thus by turning to the proper Sub-Head under the General Head “ VOCABULARIES,” you will find where all the words relating to any one subject, (as ‘ Animals,’ ‘ Birds,’ ‘ Vermin,’ and so on,) are to be found collected in the body of the book.

Another feature which certainly deserves notice here is that in both Glossaries, nouns which are masculine but have feminine terminations are marked (m.), while feminine nouns not ending in the recognised feminine terminations (see page 8,) are marked (f.). At page 105 you will find a useful (but of course incomplete) list of such feminine nouns. False genders grate horribly on the ear ; ‘ Mon soeur est très-beau.’

But the chief new feature of this Edition is “ The Reader,” which contains a collection of modern extracts of fable, story, dialogue and oratory. These should be enough to satisfy all those who have ventured to ‘ ask for more.’

As the First Edition was complete in its exposition of the grammatical structure of the language, much could not be added on this subject. Some sections however have been now more fully treated than before ; as for example, the Pronoun ‘ apna,’ on page 30.

Thus has the Author endeavoured to give some return to the public for its kind reception of the First Edition, by making the Second Edition more copious, more complete and more convenient than the First.

The Author also hopes to be able to give the student—very soon—a translation of all the Exercises, and of ‘The Reader.’ This will both shorten labour, and render a correct acquisition of the language more certain and easy.

It remains for the Author to acknowledge the services rendered by Moulvi Zâhir-ud-dîn of Patna in perusing the Hindústâni additions, as they passed through the press.

Patna, February 1893.

PREFACE TO THE FIRST EDITION.

THIS little book has been written at the request of ladies, so that no apology for its appearance is called for. Their complaint was that no book exists from which they can gain a complete and correct knowledge of the Hindústáni language suited to their daily requirements; and so they have to struggle with books which give them both too much and too little. Therefore they requested that a small book should be written by aid of which the true grammatical structure of the language might be learned, and a stock of words acquired which are actually in daily use. It is hoped, that those who have learned the lessons of this book vivâ voce with the Author will remember him kindly when they see these lessons in print.

The scope of the book is not ambitious. Thus, there are no dissertations on the origin of the language, or on the derivation of words, or on philological analogies. Very little will be found of ornate Persian or Arabic phraseology. Even some of the refinements of the alphabet—for instance, the distinction between ‘alif’ and ‘ain’—‘te’ and ‘toe,’ have not been insisted on.

The aim has been to make the book a thoroughly practical one, suited to all and every, whose mid life has to be spent in India. The lessons remain in the form of familiar oral teaching, dry rules being, as far as possible, avoided. It is hoped that the book will thus be interesting to read, as well as easy to learn. A special feature will be found in the lists of English and other foreign words which have become naturalised, at least among those natives who come much in contact with Europeans.

It is believed that the Alphabetical Vocabularies—in combination with a grammar—supply what does not at present exist in any form. Each of these contains about two thousand five hundred words and phrases, for the most part additional to the copious lists of words and phrases given during the course of the Lessons. All these have been selected and tested with the greatest care; so that the reader may feel quite sure that he is getting in all cases the words actually used by natives of ordinary education when speaking of the common affairs of daily life. The spelling is everywhere uniform; and may be said to be the Government system of transliteration. Thus is the student of Hindústáni (as is believed for the first time) provided with an adequate and readily accessible stock of really colloquial, every-day words; alphabetically arranged in Roman type, both Hindústáni-English and English-Hindústáni, on a uniform system of spelling approved by Oriental Scholars and by Government, combined with a short and easy grammar.

It cannot be denied that by far the greater number of Englishmen and Englishwomen in India speak a very peculiar language under the name of 'Hindústáni'—and this, both as regards grammar and pronunciation. The excuse is sometimes made, that they hear natives speak as they speak. There is some truth in this; but it is forgotten that the natives referred to learned the language which they so speak from their masters and mistresses, and that if credit is due to anyone, it is due to the natives who have had the wit to understand, and the skill to acquire the dialect which they hear addressed to them.

That dialect is occasionally spoken of in the following pages as 'Anglo-Hindústáni.' It is the Author's hope that by means of this little book, it will—in some degree at least—be replaced by Hindústáni as it ought to be spoken.

The contents of the book may be mastered in one month's study, even by those who are 'not good at languages.' It is recommended that at the first-reading little or no attempt should be made to translate English into Hindústáni. This should be made at the second perusal. At the first perusal, the twelve lessons should be completely mastered, the Hindústáni exercises carefully analysed, pronunciation practised aloud, and as large a stock of words learned as the reader can possibly retain.

It only remains for the Author to express his obligations to Sayad Wájid Hossen, K. B., and to Baboo Sheo Darshan, learned scholars of Bihár, for their kind labours in revising, and, in some respects amending, the letter-press of these lessons,—labours which render it probable that the book contains nothing which will mislead the student.

Paṭna, December 1889.

PUBLISHERS' PREFACE TO THIRD EDITION.

Owing to the lamented death of the Author, Mr. Tweedie, before the present edition was completed, the Publishers have had to seek other aid in passing it through the press. The work was entrusted to a distinguished linguist, and the very careful manner in which he has performed his task leads the Publishers to hope that the present edition will receive the same cordial support that was accorded to its predecessors. The features of the book remain in all respects the same, and no trouble has been spared to make the work as complete and accurate as possible.

CONTRACTIONS

USED IN THE BODY OF THE BOOK.

THE ordinary grammatical ones, as 'Sing.' for 'Singular'; 'Plur.' for 'Plural,' and so on, speak for themselves. 'Anglo-Hind.' stands for 'Anglo-Hindústáni.' (See Preface to the First Edition.) (E.) means that the word beside which it is placed is an English* one in common use by natives. 'Ex :—' stands for 'Example.' (H.) means that the word may only be used of Hindus. (M.) means that the word may be used of Muḥammadans. (L.B.) means that the word is current only or chiefly in Lower Bengal.

* Some words, e.g. 'frikasi,' 'áspik,' &c., are so obviously English, (or anyhow not Hindústáni,) that they have been printed without the (E.).

CORRIGENDA.

THE following corrections should be made, as far as possible, before beginning the perusal of the book :—

Wherever 'Huzúr' occurs, read 'Huzúr.' See page 28, also page 51, Exercise No. 16, &c

Wherever 'tarah' occurs, read 'tarah.'

Page 16, after the line beginning 'Girta hún,' insert :—

HINDÚSTÁNI

AS IT OUGHT TO BE SPOKEN.

FIRST LESSON.

THE ALPHABET AND PRONUNCIATION.

The Consonants.

1. These, in Hindústáni, correspond closely with the English Consonants ; but in Hindústáni there are some additional sounds. There is no x ; its place is supplied by “ks.” There is also no “c” whether soft or hard ; “q” does not occur in the Hindústáni in this book.

2. The unmarked “t” and “d” must be pronounced with the tip of the tongue touching the teeth. When these letters have a dot under them, pronounce with the tongue against the bars of the roof of the mouth ; so with “r” and “ṛ.”

3. Pronounce "ch" as in "church,"... "sh" as in "short,"... "g" as in "get,"... "ng" as in "king,"... "j" as in "jet,"... "y" as in "yet,"... "w" as in "wet," though sometimes the sound of "v" in "vet," is given to this letter. You should be careful also to pronounce even a single "s," with a full hissing sound, not confounding it with "z." In Hindústáni, we have both an "f," and "ph;" "f," as in English; "ph" as directed in the next section; "h" is as much a consonant as any other; it is to be lightly sounded like an ordinary English "h." When it is the last letter of a word, and is preceded by another consonant, the "h" is to be sounded like "ha," cut short as you pronounce it; "ḥ," (with dot) is a rough aspirate, such as is commonly heard in the border-country at home; "k" (without a dot) is sounded from the root of the tongue; "ḳ" (with a dot) is sounded low in the throat.

4. Many words and syllables begin with a consonant followed by "h." This "h" must not be ignored, as it nearly always is by Europeans. By ignoring it, you may call in a "loafer" when you merely want your "horse;" or a native woman instead of your brother. The effect of this "h," is to give sounds not familiar in English. You may acquire them by separating the consonant and the "h" with a very faint echo of any short vowel sound; and practising the gradual withdrawal of that sound, till you can pronounce the consonant and the "h" as one sound. Any plan is preferable to leaving out the "h." As laid down in the last preceding section, "ch" is sounded as in "church;" and "sh," as in "short;" "th" and "ph" also "kh" when not underlined, fall under this section. 'Ch' and 'sh' are single letters in Hindústáni.

5. Kh (underlined) is used to express a hard guttural sound. No English word begins with it. The Scotch word "loch" ends with it. The "ch" in the German word "ach!" comes still nearer it.

6. Gh represents a sound hardly attainable by adult Western throats. The most you will be able to do, is to treat it as a plain "gh," under Section 4 above; or you may try and catch its true sound by getting a more or less educated Muhammadan to give you the word for a "domestic fowl."

7. N (with dot) gives a strong nasal twang to the whole syllable in which it occurs.

The Vowels.

1. The short ones :—

- a pronounced as the "u" in "fun."
- i pronounced as the "i" in "fin."
- u pronounced as the "u" in "full."

2. The long ones :—

- e always long (and to be pronounced at the end of a word, as well as elsewhere): like the "e" in the German word mehr; or the Scotch pronunciation of words like "there," "fare," "dare."
- o always long, pronounced as "o" in pole; but more protracted in sound.
- á pronounced as the "a" in far.
- í pronounced as the "i" in machine.
- ú pronounced as the "u" in the German "du," or "oo" in "fool;" but more protracted in sound than the latter.

Throughout this book when “a,” “i,” and “u,” are short, they are not marked ; nor are they marked when final letters, for then they are nearly always long ; when not final letters and long, they are marked ‘, “e” and “o,” being always long, are never marked. The instances in which words end in a short vowel are shown by an “h” following the vowel.

Diphthongs.

8. Take it that there are no diphthongs : when one vowel follows another and the two are not separated by the mark “,” pronounce the second rapidly after the first as in Italian. When that mark occurs, the two vowels belong to different syllables.

VOCABULARY No. I.

ādmi, *a human being.*¹

mard, a man.

aurat, a woman.

ma, a mother.

báp, a father.

má-báp, parents : a benefactor.

bhá,i, a brother. [ing girl.

bá,i, a native woman ; a danc- bíbi, a native lady.

ghoṛa, a horse.

gora, *a European.*²

khidmatgár, *a table-servant.*³

murghi, a hen.

ghuṣl, a bath.

khána, dinner. [composition.)

khánah, a room (much used in

¹ But translate it, ordinarily, by ‘man,’ or ‘woman,’ according to the context. ² Really means ‘fair-complexioned,’ often means a European soldier ; is not applied to Europeans of rank. ³ So among Europeans ; among natives, the word is applied to any domestic servant.

SECOND LESSON.

NOUNS : their CASES, NUMBERS, AND GENDERS.

Cases.

1. "Cases," are marked by certain small words, which follow the original word. The original word, however, sometimes undergoes a slight modification before the word indicating the "case" is written. For this modification, see next section ; but note here, in anticipation, that there are two accusative cases, the "simple accusative," which is always the same as the nominative ; and an accusative formed with the particle "ko."

2. The words used to indicate case-relationship are these :—

ka, ke, ki, of ;	se, by ; with (of the instrument) ;
ko, to ; at .	also from ; also " since " (of time) ; ago .
par, on ; at ;	men, in ; into .
ne, by (of agency)	tak ; talak, up to ; as far as .

3. The selection to be made from ka, ke, ki is a difficulty which should be mastered once for all, as there are many analogies to it in the language. Note, therefore, the following explanations :—

- i. The thing owned regulates the selection.
- ii. If that thing be feminine, always use 'ki.'
- iii. If that thing be singular, masculine and nominative, or simple accusative, always use 'ka.'
- iv. If that thing be (a) singular, masculine and any case except the nominative or simple accusative : or : (b) plural, masculine, and any case : then always use 'ke.'

4. The English style with "apostrophe s," will always give the correct Hindústáni order of the words. An inversion is required in our form with "of."

Modifications in forming Cases and Numbers.

5. Proper names and words expressing family relationships do not change in the Singular ; Ex. Khuda, God : Chacha, a paternal uncle : Bába, a father : also, in Bengal, a child.

6. Note again that the nominative and the simple accusative - both singular and plural—are always the same.

7. As regards the other cases SINGULAR :—

- i. Most masculine nouns ending in "a," also many ending in "ah," change these into "e."
- ii. No change is made in any other word, masculine or feminine.

8. As regards the NOMINATIVE (and simple acc.) PLURAL :—

- i. Most masculine nouns ending in "a", and many ending in "ah" change these into "e."
- ii. No other masculine noun changes at all.
- iii. Feminine nouns ending in "i," add "āṇ."
- iv. Feminine nouns ending in any letter other than "i," add "eṇ."

9. The OBLIQUE cases of the PLURAL (including the acc. in “ko”) are formed by adding “oṇ,” to the Nom. Sing. of nouns not ending in “a,” or “ah”; or by substituting “oṇ” for “a” or “ah” in nouns which do end in these vowels.

Note.—Plurals are sometimes further formed by adding the word “log” people, (oblique cases, logoṇ) to the Nom. Plural, particularly to express the idea of a ‘class.’ Confer the use of ‘Leute’ in German. Ex laṛke-log, the children. This idiom is used only of human beings.

The Accusative in “ko.”

10. This, in form, is the same as the dative. Its effect is often said to be to particularize a special thing. But this is not always so. The selection as between the two accusatives is a nicety of the language, for which no rule can be given. Avoid using the form with “ko” so as to cause confusion in the sense as to which word is dative and which accusative.

The Vocative.

11. The Vocative Singular is the same as the Nominative, except that “a” or “ah” becomes “e.” The Vocative Plural ends in “o.”

Gender.

12. Names of males are masculine. Names of females are feminine.

Things called ‘neuter’ in English, are either masculine or feminine in Hindústáni. They should be taken to be masculine, unless known to be feminine.

13. No detailed rules for gender can be given ; but most nouns which end in ‘i,’ ‘t,’ ‘ṭ’ and ‘sh’ are feminine. Even to this rule, such common words as “pāni,” water ; “ghi,” a sort of butter ; “moti,” a pearl ; “dahi,” curd, are exceptions ; these being masculine. See Appendix, No. 3.

PARADIGM OF NOUNS.

i. Masc nouns ending in “a,” and some in “ah” :—

Cases.	Sing.	Plur.
Nom. and simple acc.	laṛka (boy)	laṛke.
Oblique cases,	laṛke	laṛkoṇ.

So ; bandah, slave, bande ; bande, bandon, &c.

ii. Any other Masc. noun :—

Cases.	Sing.	Plur.
Nom. and simple acc.	mard (man)	mard.
Oblique cases,	mard	mardon.

So ; ádmi, man ; moti, a pearl ; guru, a spiritual teacher, &c. But ‘ádmi’ has also a Nom. Plural, ádmí,áṇ.

iii. Fem. nouns ending in “i” :—

Cases.	Sing.	Plur.
Nom. and simple acc.	bíbi (lady)	bíbí,áṇ.
Oblique cases,	·bíbi	bíbí,oṇ.

So ; any other feminine noun ending in “i.”

iv. Fem. nouns ending in any other letter :—

Cases.	Sing.	Plur.
Nom. and simple acc.	rát (night)	ráteṇ.
Oblique cases,	rát	rátōṇ.

So ; any other feminine noun not ending in “i.”

VOCABULARY No. II.

Note.—There are no “ARTICLES” in Hindústáni; they are either omitted in translation, or “a” or “an” is translated by “ek”, = one; and “the” by the demonstrative pronoun, which you have not yet learned. N.B. Verbs are placed at the end of a clause or sentence. See page 61.

laṛka, a boy.

taiyár, ready.

lejá,o, take away.

suno, listen to me.

haiṇ, are.

aur, and.

bhi, also.

magar, but.

kitáb, a book (fem.)

ḳalam, a pen.

bulá,o, call; summon.

chup raho, hold your tongue.

rahne do, let alone; leave.

sabr karo, *have patience;
wait a little.*

haṭ-já,o, get out of the way.

EXERCISE NO. 1. TRANSLATE.

Mard ki ma házir hai. Aurat ka beṭa aur mard ki bahin házir haiṇ. Laṛke ki roṭi taiyár hai. Ek ádmi bulá,o. Ek ádmi ko bulá,o. Suno! há,i ke beṭe ko bulá,o. Suno! há,i ki beṭi ko lejá,o. Bá,i ka òhá,i házir hai. Gore ka ghoṛa taiyár hai. Ghúsl ka páni taiyár hai. Sabr karo! Chup raho. Haṭ-já,o. Rahne do.

Account to yourself in writing for all the ka, ke, ki's, and for the changes of a into e, in the foregoing sentences.

THIRD LESSON.

AGREEMENT.

1. "Ka, ke, ki" agree with the thing owned, according to the rules above given.
2. Adjectives ending in a consonant, or any vowel except 'a,' agree without change.
3. Adjectives used in making compound-verbs (see post, page 21) do not change.
4. Adjectives in "a," become "i" in the feminine, and then never change further, whether singular or plural.
5. If the noun be masculine, "a" of the adjective remains unchanged in the nominative and simple accusative singular. It changes into "e" in all other cases of the singular, and in every case of the plural.
6. Such parts of verbs as end in "a" also "agree," under the same rule as applies to adjectives ending in "a," and one rule more : for the feminine plural of verbs in "agreement" is in "ín." But note, that if there be more than one word thus changeable, only the last takes the "ñ" : the other stop at the "i." The agreement is, ordinarily, ¹ with the nominative.

Example of a Verb agreeing in Gender with its Nominative.

With Singular Nominative Masculine.

tha, tha, tha, was.hota tha, hota tha, hota tha, was becoming.

With Plural Nominative Masculine.

the, the, the, were.hote the, hote the, hote the, were becoming.

With Singular Nominative Feminine.

thi, thi, thi, was.hoti thi, hoti thi, hoti thi, was becoming.

With Plural Nominative Feminine.

thín, thín, thín, were.hoti thín, hoti thín, hoti thín, were becoming.

VOCABULARY No. III.

dhán, rice in the field , or in the husk .	achchha, good .
cháwal, uncooked rice .	kharáb ; bura, bad .
bhát, cooked rice .	lamba, tall ; long .
dál, a kind of pea ,	úncha ; baland, high .
dál-bhát, a native phrase for native food generally .	kotáh, short .
makkhan, butter .	bara, great .
dahi, curd .	chhoṭa, small .
ghi, native butter much used for cooking purposes .	bahut, much .
chá,e, tea .	thoṛa, a little .
káfi, (E.) ; kahwah, coffee .	bas, enough ; that's enough .
chíni, sugar .	chhoṭi házirí, early tea .
	baṛi házirí, breakfast .
	nahín, not .
	nahín, to, if not, then .

Note. — When two things are intimately connected, and is omitted, as dál-bhát, roṭi-makkhan (bread and butter), &c.

EXERCISE NO. 2.

FOURTH LESSON.

THE VERB.

1. There is only one conjugation, and very few irregularities.

2. Simple tenses are those in which no "auxiliary verb," (as "am," "have," "shall," "will,") is used to form them.

3. Compound tenses are those which are made of (generally) the present or the past participle of the chief verb, and an "auxiliary."

4. The future tense, the present subjunctive, and the imperative, (with 'let') though compound in English, are simple in Hindústáni.

5. Nearly all languages use the verbs "to be" and "to have," as their chief auxiliary verb. Ex. "I am speaking," "I have spoken." In Hindústáni, there is no verb "to have."¹ The verb "to be" is therefore used as the only "auxiliary," and must be generally translated by our verb "have" in all compound tenses of the past participle. This is a little difficult at first, as the tenses look like tenses with the sense of a passive voice, but it will soon become familiar to you. Compare the German "Ich bin gewesen" and the

Italian, Io sono stato, literally, I am been, but, in English, French and Spanish “I have been.”

6. Subject to what has just been said as to translating the Hindústáni auxiliary by “be” or “have,” as the English idiom may require, compound tenses are got by a literal translation of the English. Remember, however, that the auxiliary verb comes last in Hindústáni—“I speaking am” : “They spoken had.” See, also, clause 4 above.

7. Every verb consists of an invariable “stem ;” and a variable termination. Starting with the “Infinitive,” which always ends in “na,” it is to be noted that that part of the word which precedes “na,” be it only a single letter, is the “stem” to which the terminations are added.

8. The terminations are these:—(only masculine forms are given, but see Third Lesson, section 6, page 10).

–ún –e –e –en –o –en, Imperative and Subjunctive.

–únga –ega –ega –enge –oge –enge, Future.

–ta, Present Participle.

–a, Past Participle.

–ke, kar, or karke, Perfect Participle.

–te hi, A special form, meaning ‘immediately on,’ or, ‘immediately after.’

–iye, A respectful or polite form of the 2nd person of the imperative ; meaning, ‘please to,’ &c.

Note.—The Imperative, the Subjunctive and the last three never change ; ‘a’ agrees under the rules already given.

9. The Future, the Subjunctive, and the Imperative of “hona,” to be, are usually written in a contracted form. The Future is as follows : the Subjunctive and the Imperative being reached by dropping “ga” and “ge.”

Sing., húnga, hoga, hoga. Plur., honge, hoge, honge.

10. Sometimes these words are met with in the regular form, ho,únga, ho,ega, &c. ; sometimes a euphonic “w” is inserted, and then the words would be “howúnga, &c.” : but the contracted forms are, perhaps, the most common.

So also the “e” of the stem of “dena” to give, is generally omitted ; also, the “e” of the stem of “lena,” to take : so we get “dúnga” or “de,únga,” &c. “I shall give :” and “do,” or “de,o” Imperative, “give :” so, lúnga, or le,únga ; lo, or le,o, I shall take ; take.

11. Only the following parts of “hona,” therefore, can be considered as materially “irregular” :—

Past Part., hú,a, been.

Pres. Tense,—hai, hai ; hain, ho, hain, am, &c.

Past Tense,—tha, tha, tha ; the, the, the, was, &c.

[Always bear in mind Section 6 of the Third Lesson.]

12. The compound tenses of “hona” are made with hona as the auxiliary, the same as any other verb. Ex. :—Main hú,a hún ; ham hú,e the. I have been ; we had been.

13. All “Infinitives” are Verbal Nouns. Present Participles are never verbal nouns.

14. When, by inflection, two “a”s meet, they are separated by a “y,” as ána to come ; stem á ; past participle á,a ; but written “áya.”

15. When by inflection, an “a” and an “e” meet, they are usually separated by a “w.” Thus from “ána,” we may write “á,ega,” or “áwega.”

16. The plain stem is sometimes used as a 2nd person of the Imperative ; but it is insulting to the person to whom it is addressed. Ex :—ja, go.

17. On the next page is given a Paradigm of a Hindústáni Verb.

*Special Parts.*Gir-te-hi, immediately on falling.Gir-iyē, be good enough to fall ; fall.

So with nearly all other stems in the language.

16. The present participle, used without the auxiliary, forms the tense which is usually called "The Conditional." It expresses a condition with reference to past time. The next clause, which gives the consequence, is also thrown into the same tense. Ex. :—If the man had come, (then) I would have given him one rúpi : (= Agar ádmi áta, to, main us-ko ek rúpíya deta).

ii. The same tense also expresses continuity of action in past time or what usually happened ; as, "whenever the king visited the town, he gave gratuities to the poor ;" here also both clauses are put into this tense : Jab rája shahar ko áte, tab gharíb logon ko bakhshish dete.

[The verb is here made plural, out of respect to the rája.]

17. The past participle, used without the auxiliary, forms a tense which expresses an absolute, completed action in past time. Ex. :—"He wrote a letter yesterday." It also expresses a hypothetical future event. The ordinary future, or subjunctive, expresses the same sense ; so you may use any of the forms noted. When this participle is used as an adjective, it is followed by "hú,a," both words agreeing with the noun : as, písa hú,a chával, ground rice ; mári hú,i laṛki, a beaten (female) child.

18. The future perfect tense, (see Paradigm) is much used to express what you think must have occurred, though you don't actually know that it has occurred. Hence the common phrase, "hú,a hoga," literally "it will have been ;" but meaning "no doubt it has so happened, though I don't know it," and so, in similar senses. Ex. :—"pahuncha hoga," "no doubt he has arrived," "diya hoga," "it will have been given," i.e., no doubt, it has been given.

19. "Shall have" is often equivalent to "must"—being used either where we give a peremptory order, or recognise what is inevitable. The phrase is translated by the Verbal Noun (infinitive) followed by "hoga." Ex. :—

Eng. We shall have to go in the carriage to-day (áj).

Note. Main, I. Ham, we. Ham-ko, to us.

Hind. To-day, to us in the carriage going will-be. Aj ham-ko gári men jána hoga.

Eng. The table-servant must bring dinner.

Hind. To the table-servant, bringing dinner is obligatory. Khidmatgár-ko khána lána hoga.

20. "Must" when used politely, and not peremptorily, is rendered by the word "cháhiye," which is (in effect) an irregular 3rd personal verb—meaning "it is necessary," "proper," "desirable" or the like. It is also used (without any polite sense) of what applies to one's self. Ex. :—Admi-ko jána cháhiye, (to the man going is-proper) the man must go. Ham-ko roti cháhiye, (to me bread is-necessary) I must have some bread.

21. "Ought," which is a sort of modified "must," may be translated by the same word "cháhiye;" or by appropriate adjectival phrases, e.g., "it is necessary" (zarúr); "proper," (munásib) that I, you, the man, should do such and such. The easiest construction is the same as that given above, 'ham-ko jána cháhiye.'

22. "May" and "can," denoting permission and ability are translated by the verb "sakna," to be able. This is properly added to the "stem" of the principal verb: but is often used (incorrectly) even by natives with the genitive of the infinitive. Ex. :—

He can speak [bolna] = wuh bol-sakta hai.

The children may remain = bába-log rahne sakte haiñ.

23. To "have done," or "finished" with a thing is translated by "chukna" added to the "stem" of the principal verb. Ex. :—He has done speaking = wuh bol-chuka hai. Sometimes it is found added to the past participle.

Hence, the common “ho-chuka” meaning “it’s finished,” “it’s done,” “it’s all over.” “Ho-gaya,” irregular past from the compound verb “ho-jána,” to become, is often used as equivalent to “ho-chuka.” You may use either word ; and when used alone, i.e., not as part of a sentence, you need not alter the word in any way. But you would say, “chhoṭí hásiri ho-chuki hai, if you wished to make a sentence of it.

24. The language abounds in verbs intensified in meaning by one verb being added to the “stem” of another, the latter only being conjugated. They should be used rather than simple verbs. Here are some examples :—

ḍálna, to throw, plus dena, to give, gives, ḍál-dena, to throw down.

dena, to give, „ d-na, to give, „ de-dena, to give up.
dekhna, to see, „ lena, to take, „ dekh-lena, to take a look at a thing.

kahna, to tell, „ dena, to give, „ kah-dena, to inform.
khána, to eat, „ lena, to take, „ khá-lena, to eat up.
khána, to eat, „ jána, to go, „ khá-jána to eat up.
lena, to take, „ ána, to come, „ le-ána or lána, to bring.

lena, to take, „ jána, to go, „ le-jána, to take away.

márna, to strike, „ ḍálna, to throw, „ már-ḍálna, to kill.
rakhna, to place, „ dena, to give, „ rakh-dena, to put a thing down.

pína, to drink, „ lena, to take, „ pí-lena, to drink up.
pína, to drink, „ jána, to go, „ pí-jána, to drink up,
and very many more.

25. The (so-called) Nominatives in the tenses of the past participle of transitive verbs are peculiar : but this is what you have to do :—

- i. Change the nominative into the case with “ne.”
- ii. Take the accusative, and consider it to be a nominative.
- iii. Make it, so looked upon as a nominative, and the verb “agree,” according to Section 6 of the Third Lesson.

Ex. :—The man struck a boy, mard-ne ek laṛka mára.¹

The man struck a girl, mard-ne ek laṛki mári.

The man has struck two boys, mard-ne do laṛke máre haiṇ.

The man had struck two girls, mard-ne do laṛki,ṇ mári thiṇ.

The explanation of this strange construction which is usually given is that it is equivalent to “by a man, a boy was struck.” But the explanation is faulty ; for that English phrase is in the passive voice, while the Hindústání is in the active voice. You must just accept the construction as it stands.

26. Whenever it is possible to use the accusative with “ko,” you partly avoid the difficulty ; for then the verb is always in the third person singular, masculine.

Ex. :—Mard-ne laṛke ko mára, the man struck the boy.

Mard-ne laṛki ko mára, the man struck the girl.

Aurat-ne laṛki ko mára hai, the woman has struck the girl.

Aurat-ṇ-ne laṛki,ṇ ko mára tha, the women had struck the girls.

Also note that verbs such as those given on page 19, of which the last part is got from “ána,” or “jána” (e.g. lána, to bring) (though transitive) follow the ordinary rule, and not the rule given at Section 25.

¹ “ Mára ” may also mean to kill.

27. By adding “karna,” or “dena” to certain adjectives and nouns, you can reach a large number of corresponding verbs, Ex. :—

taiyár, ready ,	taiyár karna, to prepare ; make ready.
sáf, clean ,	sáf karna, to clean.
kála, black ,	kála karna, to blacken.
házir, present ,	házir karna, to bring one in ; introduce.
supurd, trust ,	supurd karna, to entrust.
báwar, belief ,	báwar karna, to believe.

and many more.

28. Other forms of derivative verbs are such as the following :—

bolna, to speak ,	bulána, to call.
márna, to strike ,	marna, to die.
khána, to eat ,	khilána, to give to eat ; to feed. ¹
pína, to drink ,	vilána, to give to drink ; to water. ¹
dena, to give ,	dilwána, to cause to be given.
dekhna, to see ,	dikhlána, to show.

and many more.

29. There are some irregular forms of the “respectful imperative,” Viz. :—i. Díjiye, from dena, be pleased to give. ii. Kíjiyè, from karna, be good enough to do or make. iii. Líjiye, from lena, be pleased to take. iv. Píjiye, from pína, drink ; v. Hújiye, from hona, be or become.

30. One other useful idiom should be learned, viz., the use of the pres. part. to express that you do one thing while also doing another thing. Ex. :—Wuh mard bolta chalá-játa hai, that man goes along, talking.

Note.—This idiom is often strengthened by doubling the participle. With a fem. nom. it will be (e.g.) bolti, and in the plur. masc bolte, according to the ordinary rules of agreement.

The Irregular Past Participles.

31. There are six irregular past participles (including “hú,a” from “hona” already given). They are as follows :—

	Sing.		Plur.
	Masc.	Fem.	Masc.	Fem.
From jána, to go	gaya ,	ga,i .	ga,e	ga,ín .
„ karna, to do	kiya ,	ki .	kí,e	kín .
„ dena, to give	diya ,	di .	dí,e	dín .
„ lena, to take	liya ,	li .	lí,e	lín .
„ hona, to be	hú,a ,	hú,i .	hú,e	hú,ín .
„ marna, to die	mú,a	mú,i	mú,e	mú,ín .

Note.—“In Bengal, gaya is frequently corrupted into giya” in ordinary talk. Marna has also a regular past participle, mara.

The Passive Voice.

32. Never use the passive voice, if you can express your meaning in the active voice.

In making the passive voice, use “jána,” to go, where English uses the verb “to be.” Confer Italian, which makes much use of ‘venire,’ in forming the passive ; also the German, verloren gegangen. Ex. :—

The man is struck = The man is going struck. Mard mára játa hai. ... The woman was struck = The woman was going struck. Aurat reári játi thi. ... The horse will be beaten = The horse will go beaten. Ghoṛa mára já,ega.

The lady of the house, ghar ki mem-sáhibah.

The young lady of the house, ghar ki mís-sáhibah.

The young gentleman of the house, chhoṭa sáhib.

Note.—The first three phrases are required by the exigencies of Europeans ; but are not good Hindústáni. The proper feminine of "sáhib" is "sáhibah ;" but 'sáhib' is often used as if of both genders. Never allow "mís-bába" for a grown-up young lady. Mem-sáhibah is used to mean a married lady, plur. mem-log, the ladies. 'Chhoṭa sáhib,' used in an official sense, means 'the Assistant Magistrate,' junior partner, or the like.

⁴ Custom warrants the use of this word by itself, or after a personal name, with reference to any European of fair social position. Its correct use is (not after a personal name but) after a designation, or name of office, whether European or native: as Judge-sáhib, the Judge; Diwán-sáhib, the diwán; Munshi-sáhib the (Muhammedan) writer, &c. The phrase "call my Baboo," meaning "call writer, &c.," should be cut out of our Anglo-Hindústání.

The woman has made many attempts. I'm going. He has gone. Keep quiet ! the 'sáhib' is lying down ; the 'mem-sáhibah' is sleeping : the 'mís-sáhibah' is learning Hindústáni. Wait a little ! I am reading the newspaper. The children will go into the garden. The children may (can) go into the drawing-room.

FIFTH LESSON.

THE PRONOUNS.

These seem at first intricate ; but if you will notice the analogies which run through them, they will become easy.

2. To begin with a simple point. There is the pronoun of respectful address to be used to equals and superiors, “áp.” The word is unchangeable ; but takes the case-signs after it. With the case-signs of the genitive, it of course means “your.”—It is joined to the third person plural for politeness sake.

3. If you are addressing a person of not less rank than “rája,” you may use the noun “huzúr” (with the third person plural). Ex. :—“Huzúr ka mizáj kaisa hai ?” Your Honour's health, how is it ? Huzúr nahín jánte haiñ (kih &c.) Does your Honour not know (that &c.). The ordinary address to inferiors is made by the second person plural. The second person singular is used only in abusive or contemptuous address, and therefore ought to be always avoided.

4. The PERSONAL PRONOUNS are as follows :—

The First Person.

		Sing.	Plur.

Gen.	...	mera. ¹	...hamára. ¹

Form to which to add all particles, except 'ne' :—
mujh. ...ham.

The Second Person.

Nom.	...	tu, thoutum.
Gen.	...	tera. ¹	...tumbhára. ¹

Form to which to add all particles, except 'ne' :—
tujh. ...tum.

Notes :—

- i. "ne" is always added to the Nominative forms.
- ii. You will never be wrong if you use only these forms ; but there are also these other forms :—

Dat. and Acc. Sing.	"mujhe," "tujhe."	} no particles.
Dat. and Acc. Plur.	"hamen," "tumhen."

 Oblique plur. forms, "hamon," "tumhon" These take the particles, including "ne."
- iii. Never use the Sing. of the 2nd personal pronoun. Always use the plural throughout. (See para. 3, above.)
- iv. You will never be wrong in using also only the plur. of "main ;" but when speaking to an equal or superior, it is better to use the singular.
- v. Even natives of rank, when speaking of themselves, generally use a noun of humility, with the 3rd person singular. Persons of inferior rank to you, ought always so to speak to you of themselves. Such words are :—"Ghulám," your servant ; "Bandah," your servant ; "Fidwi," your faithful one ; Tábidár," your subordinate.

¹ These follow the rules for "ka, ke, ki," but, being already genitive, they do not take these particles after them.

The Third Personal Pronouns.

Nom. and simple accusative, yih, he, she, it. | ye, they.

Oblique forms for all particles, is, him, her, it. | in, them.

Nom. and simple accusative, wuh, he, she, it. | we, they.

Oblique forms, as above. us, him, her, it. | un, them.

‘Yih’ is he, she, it of a person or thing near you;
‘wuh,’ of a person or thing more or less distant.

THE DEMONSTRATIVE PRONOUNS.

5. Yih and wuh are also THE DEMONSTRATIVE PRONOUNS; this, that; these, those.

Notes:—

- i. You will never be wrong if you use only these forms; but there are also these other forms:—

Dat. and Acc. Sing. , “ise,” “use.”	}	no particles.
Dat. and Acc. Plur. , “inhen,” “unhen.”
Oblique plur. forms. “inhon,” “unhon.”

 These take the particles. including “ne.”
- ii. When “yih” and “wuh” are personal pronouns, the case-particles are added to the oblique forms direct; when they are demonstrative pronouns, these particles are added to the noun only. Ex.:—is-ko do, give (it) to him; is ádmi ko do, give it (to) this man.
- iii. It is polite to use the plural for the singular of these personal pronouns. Ex.:—un-ko do, give (it) to him.

THE POSSESSIVE PRONOUNS.

6. These are the Genitive cases of the three personal pronouns, used as adjectives in agreement with the thing owned. Ex.:—Mera ghorā, my horse; mere ghorē, my horses; tumhāri khúshi, your pleasure; is-ka ghar, his (or, her) house; is-ka rang, its color; un-ki bahin, his sister.

THE REFLEXIVE PRONOUN ‘APNA.’

7. ‘This word is a stumbling-block to Europeans.

8. It is a plain Adjective agreeing with a person or thing owned, according to the rules of ka, ke, ki; but when it means "self," it is necessarily used without a noun. It never takes any of the terminations of the oblique cases in the plural. We have, therefore, only the three words 'apna,' 'apne' and 'apni.'

9. It means my own, thy own, his own, her own, its own : our own, your own and their own, whenever these words 'refer back' to a preceding Nominative, relating to the same person or thing.

10. It also means "self," "selves," as these words are added to my, thy, his, her, its : our, your, them, when they 'refer back' to a Nominative of the same subject. Ex. :— I want that horse for myself.

11. When "myself," etc., follow a personal pronoun merely as strengthening adjuncts, they cannot be translated by 'apna.' You must use the indeclinable word 'khud.'

Notes :—

- i. Not to use 'apna' where it is the proper word, or to use where it is not the proper word, is sure to give a meaning which you do not wish to express.
- ii. Observe that the Nominative is nearly always left to be 'understood' in the second person of the Imperative Mood ; and that pronouns, as Nominatives, are also very generally omitted. These facts make no difference in the necessity for 'apna.'
- iii. 'Own' is generally omitted in English, but if the context requires it, the omission does not remove the necessity for 'apna.' Thus, the sentence 'he wants his horse' will be translated according as 'his' means his own horse, or the horse of another man. In the former case, the translation will be, wuh apna ghora cháhta hai ; in the latter, wuh is-ka (or, us-ka) ghora cháhta hai. Everything turns on the second pronoun relating back (or not) to the same person or thing as the Nominative. When it does so relate back, use 'apna'; when it does not so relate back, use an ordinary possessive pronoun.

EXERCISE NO. 6.

Yih ghoṛa mera hai. Yih mera ghoṛa hai. Maiṇ apna ghoṛa pasand karta hūṇ. Maiṇ us-ka ghoṛa pasand karta hūṇ. Hamāra ghoṛa lá,o. Mera ghoṛa mere wāste lá,o. Main, apna ghoṛa, apne wāste, chāhta hūṇ. Main, apna ghoṛa, us-ke wāste, chāhta hūṇ. Wuh ādmi apne bhā,i ke wāste ām le-āta hai. Wuh ādmi us-ke bhā,i ke wāste ām le-āta hai. Apna kām chhoṛ-do; mera kām karo. Apne bá,eṇ já,o. Apna khāna khá,o. Us ka khāna khá,o. Us-ne apna khāna khāya hai. Us-ne us-ka khāna khāya hai. Teri bát se teri badzāti maalūm hoti hai. Maiṇ-ne, apne wāste, bahut koshish ki¹ hai. Wuh aurat, apne wāste, bakhshish mángti hai. Maiṇ khud já,únga.

EXERCISE NO. 7.

Pull your own rope; leave his alone. He calls his (own) servant. He calls his (another person's) servant. Turn to your right-hand. He, by his labour, has become rich. He, by his (another person's) assistance, has got promotion. He will eat his (own) dinner. He will take his (another man's) place. He fetched a chair for his (own) mother. He has brought ten (das) Rupees for his (another person's) servant. I wish this for myself. This is my hat. He has brought my pony. I myself will do it. The rája himself said.

¹ 'Ki' is either from 'ka, ke, ki' or is the fem. past part. of 'karna.' Here, it is the latter.

THE INTERROGATIVE PRONOUNS.

12. These are “kaun?” who? which? what? and “kya?”¹ what?

13. “Kaun” is used, properly, of persons only; but is often used for animals or things. It may either stand alone, or be followed by a noun.

14. “Kya”¹ is used of animals or things. It may either stand alone, or be followed by a noun.

15. Declensions.

	Sing.	Plur.
Nom. and Simple Acc.	kaun ?	kaun ?
Form for the oblique cases	kis ?	kin ?
Nom. and Simple Acc.	kya ?	kya ?
Form for the oblique cases	káhe ?	káhe ?

THE RELATIVE PRONOUN.

16. This is “jo,” who, which.

A little attention is here needed. In Hindústáni the “relative” pronoun is put before the noun to which it relates; and so we form the first clause; then we pick up the thing by a personal pronoun in the second clause.

Ex. :—Eng. Call-in the man, who is at the door.

Hind. What-man is at the door, him call-in.

„ Jo ádmi darwáze par hai, us-ko-bulá,o.

17. The easiest declension of this word is as follows :

Nominative and Simple Accusative, singular and plural jo.

Form to which case-signs of the singular are added ... jis.

Form to which case-signs of the plural are added ... jin.

The “correlative” or word with which the second clause begins is, ordinarily, the demonstrative “wuh,” see the example above :—“jo ádmi darwáze par hai—us-ko-bulá-o.”

¹ Hence the common phrase “kya hai?” “what is it?” what do you want, &c.

For things, ‘so’ (indeclinable,) is often used.

Note.—You will sometimes find the Relative Pronoun used in Hindústáni following its antecedent as in English. Especially when a clause stands as antecedent.

VOCABULARY No. VII.

Giving some English (and other) words, which (generally in a more or less corrupted form) have become common in English houses : and which may be freely used. They are both singular and plural.

[The word “kamis,” (fem.) a shirt, or chemise, is of Arabic origin.]

brúsh, a brush.	súl-dráz, body-drawers.

What children are there? Which is a good house? (=which house is good?) The European's house is a good one (say, only, 'is good').

¹Házir.

SIXTH LESSON.

VARIOUS WORDS ALLIED TO PRONOUNS.

1. "Ko,i" and "kuchh" should first be noted. They may stand alone, or be followed by a noun. They are not interrogative: though the sentence in which they stand may be interrogative.

2. "Ko,i" is used of persons, and of things specifically indicated. It may be translated, some, any—"ko,i" followed by "nahin" gives us "no" or "nobody." Ex. :—ko,i nahin hai, nobody is there. Ko,i admi nahin hai, There is no man present. Sab ko,i, everyone. Sab ko,i chale-ga,e hain, every one has gone away.

3. "Kuchh" is used of matter or mental feelings, and has generally an abstract sense. It is unchangeable and is also translated some, any. With "nahin" added, we get "no," "none," and "nothing."

4. Declension of Ko,i.

	Sing.	Plur.
Nom. and Simple Acc.	ko,i.	ko,i.
Form for the oblique cases	kisi.	kin.

EXAMPLES :—Ko,i hai, some one is there. Ko,i hai¹? is any one there? Ko,i admi hai, some man is there. Ko,i admi hai? is any man

¹ Kaun hai? Means who is there?—you knowing or believing that some one is there.

there? Ko,i kursi lá,o, bring some chair or other. Kuchh roti hai, there is some bread; kuchh roti hai? is there any bread? Kuchh nahin hai, there is none. [Kya hai? What's the matter?] Kuchh nahin, nothing. Kuchh parwah nahin hai, there is no matter; pray don't trouble yourself.

5. With “jo,” and ‘ko,i and ‘kuchh,’ compound pronouns are made as in English—viz :—

jo ko,i, whoever jo kuchh, whatever.

Notes. Both ‘jo,’ and ‘ko,i’ change in the oblique cases according to the declensions of these words already given. Of course, in ‘jo kuchh,’ only the “jo” can change.

6. The words given below are plain adjectives. They follow the rules of ka, ke, ki.

aur, another, whether meaning a different thing of the same kind, or an additional thing of the same kind. In the latter sense “aur ek” (meaning one more) may be used and ambiguity avoided.

aisa, like this, waisa, like that.

kaisa? like what? what like? what sort of a? how?

kitna? how much? how many?

itna, this much.

jaisa, taisa, as, so.

jitna, titna, (or itna) as much as: or as many as—so much, so many.

Notes :—

i. Aisa...waisa and the two pairs last given are used correlatively.

As :—Jaisa málik, taisa naukár, as is the master, so is the servant. Jitna dúdh hai, titna (or itna) do, give me as much milk as there is. See Appendix No. 2, page 104.

ii. Here notice the useful phrase ‘Jaisa cháhiye,’ as you please: ‘taisa kijiye’ (so do) being ‘understood.’

7. The following words do not change :—

har, each ; har-ek, each one. donon, both.
 bahut, much, many. aur, more.
 chand ; baaze, several. aur ek, one more ; another.
 aur do, aur tîn, aur chár, &c. two more, three more, four more, &c.

sab, all ; the whole, may be used without change, and either with or without a noun. Ex.:—Ham sab log, all we people. When used without a noun you may say “sab” or “sabhon,” in the oblique cases.

8. DISTRIBUTION is marked by doubling the numeral : or by the use of “har-ek,” each. Ex.:—
 Ek ek ádmi ko, ek rúpíyah do, or, } give each man a rúpi.
 Har ek ádmi ko ek rúpíyah do. }

There are² many men present (= many men are present.) Light the fire. There is no fire-wood. Bring some from the cook-house. Please give me (i.e., to me) some blotting-paper. This night-light has gone out : bring another. Put (it) on the chair, and go away.

² See page 75, section 12.

SEVENTH LESSON.

PREPOSITIONS.

1. These generally follow their noun or pronoun.
2. Most of them follow the genitive with ke ; a few follow the genitive with ki.
3. Of course, when a word is itself a genitive, the preposition follows it directly, without ke or ki. Ex. :—Mere wáste, for me : for my sake : tumháre liye, for your sake, for you. Kis wáste, on what account ? why ?

VOCABULARY No. XII.

1. Prepositions which follow the genitive with ke, or a genitive word in a. Those with an asterisk may also be used as adverbs.

* áge, in front.

baad, after (time).

bá, is, by reason of

* báhar, outside.

badle, instead of.

* bích, among ; between.

pár, over ; across.

pás, near ; beside.

mutábik ; mu,áfik, like ; in conformity with ; according to.

ba-mújib, according to ; agreeably to.

* nazdík, near.

* píchhe, behind.

sáth, along with

* sámne, in front of.
sabab, by reason of.
siwa ; siwa,e, except.
ewaz, as a substitute for.

* karib, near.

* gird, around.
liye, for the sake of ; for.
máre, by reason of ; on ac- count of.

* niche, under.

wáste, for the sake of.

* darmiyán, in the midst :
by the way (i.e., road)
between ; among.

yahán, beside ; in presence of.
 (the French "chez;" German "bei.")

2. Of these which follow ki, or genitive word in i, you need only learn these :—

bábat, concerning.

jihat, on account of.

khátir, for the love of ; for the sake of.

tarah, like : is tarah, in this manner : us tarah, in that manner. *

taraf, towards : is taraf, this way, (i.e., direction) ; us taraf, that way,* (i.e., direction).

márfat, by the hands of ; through a person.

nisbat, concerning ; relative to ; ba-nisbat is ki, in comparison with this.

* Note.—In such quasi-adverbial phrases as these, made with "is" and "us," demonstratives, the "ke" or "ki" is omitted before the preposition. Other examples are "is liye," on this account ; "us liye," on that account.

EXERCISE NO. 14.

Ghar ke áge bará darakht hai. Dar ke máre báhar nahín ga,e the. Mere nazdík ek rúpíya bhi nahín hai. Tumháre liye sab ko,i koshish karega. Is taraf mat á,o ; us taraf já,o. Ba-nisbat is ki, wuh achchha hai. Yih kám kis tarah karúnga? Jaisa cháhiye. Mere yahán bahut ghore hain.

EXERCISE No. 15.

The European soldiers have gone across the river. Under the lamp (is) darkness.¹ By the way, I saw two tigers. He was going towards the city. In this manner he became rich. For my sake he underwent much labour. Compared with this, dying is better. Among friends, quarrelling is bad. There are many good pictures in the Judge's house.² He has done the work, agreeably-to my orders.

EIGHTH LESSON.

CONJUNCTIONS AND ALLIED WORDS.

VOCABULARY No. XIII.

These present no difficulties. Those which suggest a “subjunctive” sense (as, ‘if,’ ‘though,’) are often, but not always, followed by the Subjunctive Mood. The principal conjunctions are as follows :—

agar.; jo, if .	nahín, to, if not ; otherwise .
agarchih, although .	bhi ; ham, also .
aur, and ; also .	harchand, although .
balkih, rather ; on the contrary .	pas, therefore ; so .
chúnkih, in as much as ;	to, then . (See Notes , p. 47.)
as ; since ; because .	tau bhi, even then ; still .
kih, that (of narration).	warna, and if not ; or else .
Sometimes it has the sense	hanoz, yet ; still ; up to this
of ‘ or ,’ as ‘kih na,’ or not .	time .
khwáh...khwáh, either...or .	ya, or .
kyúnkih, because .	ya...ya, either...or .
go-kih, given that ; although .	na . na : na yih...nah wuh, magar ; lekin ; par, but .	neither...nor .

see also Appendix No. II, page 104.

‘Both...and’ ; —‘Both’ is not translated ; ‘and’ is usually translated by ‘o,’ sometimes emphasised by adding

'bhi' after the second word. Ex. :— 'Ādmi wahāṇ the,' o larke bhi the, Both men and boys were there.

Notes.—'To' is used in the second clause to introduce the consequence, result, &c., of the first clause. Ex. :—Agar tum yih kām nahīṇ karoge, to main ghussah hūṅga, If you don't do this work, I shall be angry.

- i. As a particle 'to' has several idiomatic uses. Thus, it is used to emphasise an Imperative. Ex. :—dekho to, look now! suno to, just you listen! It is also used after a numeral, instead of a repetition of the thing spoken of. Ex. :—Ap-ko kitne rūpiye darkār haiṇ? Das to kāfi hoṅge, How many rupees does Your Honor require? Ten will be enough.
- ii. 'Kih' is much more frequently introduced in narration than is 'that' in English. It is generally pronounced as if spelt with a short "e," like our "e" in kennel.
- iii. There is a peculiar idiom in the use of 'jab tak' (or, talak) and 'tab-tak' (or, talak)—words which, taken together, give us one sense of the English 'while,' and 'till'. The idiom is that you must always insert a negative before the verb of the first clause. We fix our minds on (for example) the moment of our return; the natives, on the duration of the absence. Ex. :—jab-tak main nahīṇ phir-á,ūṇ, tab-tak baiṭhiye, so long as I do NOT return, so long take-a-seat, i.e., till I return, take a seat. Jab-tak ghoṛa taiyār nahīṇ hoga, tab-tak ek kitāb paṛhiye, as long as the horse is NOT ready—so long read a book, or, read a book, while the horse is getting ready.
- v. When two unrelated events are spoken of, as happening at the same time, use 'jis-waqt' and 'us-waqt.' Ex. :—Jis-waqt main chitṭhi likhta tha, us-waqt wuh akhbār dekhta tha, while I was writing a letter, he was taking a look at the newspaper.
- vi. 'Chūṅkih' of the first clause is followed by 'is wāste' in the second clause.

Notes:—

- i. The verb ‘milna’ occurs most frequently as a 3rd person verb only. What is our Nominative becomes a Dative, and our Accusative becomes the Nominative. Confer the Latin, ‘Liber est mihi,’ I have a book.

With this construction always preserved, ‘milna’ means every phase of a thing coming-to, reaching, meeting a person or thing. Its precise English must vary with the context, and includes have, find, get, procure, meet, come-across or whatever else suits.

‘Mila’ (3rd pers. past tense,) is a handy word—used alone—to mean ‘I’ve found it ;’ ‘I’ve got it.’ Or you may say—more fully—‘ham-ko mila hai.’ ‘Ham mile,’ ‘wuh milega,’ and so on, are not Hindústānī.

EXAMPLES:—Jangal men ham-ko do sher mile the, In the jangal I met two tigers. Mujh-ko bakhshish milegi, I shall get a reward.

Us-ko hukm-námah mila hai, he has got a written-order. Darmiyán rah ke, ek naddi mili thi, In the middle (or, by the way,) they came-on a river ; ('unhon-ko' being 'understood.')

- ii. From 'pakna,' comes the Anglo-Hindi. 'pucca.'
- iii. 'I agna,' when it means to begin, is preceded by the inflected form of the Infinitive : Ex :—Wuh bolne laga, he began to say.
- iv. 'Darna,' to fear, requires 'se' of the thing feared. Ex—main tum-se darta hún, I am frightened for you.
- v. 'Kahna,' to say, tell, also takes 'se' where we use to. Ex. :—Us-ne ham-se kaha, kih, &c , he told (to) us, that, &c. So with 'púchhna' :—us-se púchhiye, ask of him, ask him.
- vi. To express purpose, intention or object, the inflected form of the Infinitive followed by 'ko' or 'ke wáste,' is used Ex :—Wuh kháne ko játa hai, he is going to dine. Khelne ke wáste báhar játa hún, I am going out to play. Or you may say—'ke matlab se' = with the intention of. Ex :—Us shakhs-ne, mujh-ko nuksán pahuncháne ke matlab se, yih bát kahi hai, that fellow has told this story in order to cause injury to arrive to me, i.e., to injure me.

sufed, white .	púrab ; mashrik, the East .
	pachchham ; maghrib, the West .

Notes :—

‘Kam’ is much used as a prefix, signifying deficiency. ‘Maalim,’ ‘Ná-maalim,’ are much used colloquially, by themselves alone, to mean ‘I know it,’ ‘I don’t know it.’ ‘Muflis’ is said also to mean ‘a bachelor,’ but there is probably some error in this use of the word.

The words ‘uttar,’ ‘dakhan,’ ‘púrab,’ and ‘pachchham,’ are those most commonly used. From ‘dakhan’ comes the Anglo-Hind, ‘Deccan.’

All natives know the points of the compass ; and all directions should be given by them. Thus you may tell your servant if you want him to bring you an article, (and know yourself where it lies,) that it is, e.g., on the North-West corner of your table. He is then sure to find it, if there.

EXERCISE No. 21.

Are ! kidhar játe ho ? ‘Ap kyún púchhte hai ? Kya bát ! tuñr jawáb nahin de,oge ? Hain khudáwánd ! fidwi jawáb dega ; fidwi bázár játa hai. Bahut achchha ! kusúr nahin hai, chalo. Duhá, Maháráni ki ! chor logon-ne mere sab mál tūt-liye hai ; hukm dījiye kih polis (E.) ke sipáhi, an fouan tahkikát karen. Wá,e ! wá,e. Afsos hai ! chāron taraf uttar, dakhan, púrab, pachchham, talásh karenge, kaho !

¹ ‘Chāron taraf’—(chār, four) idiomatic ; on all sides ; “chār” is made plural ; ‘taraf’ is unchanged ; no preposition is required.

kya kya mál gum ho-gaya hai ?

Yih ádmi aklmand hai ; wuh, be-wuqúf hai. Yih aurat bahut dubli hai ; lekin uska khasam bahut móṭa hai. Yih kapra patla aur kam-arz hai, mujh ko kapra mazbút aur chaurā darkār hai ; tumháre pás aisa kapra hai ? Kála kapra mazbút hai. Be-wuqúf ! main sufed kapra mángta hún, tum kála kapra báhar karte ho—já,o ! Berar ! Hān khudáwand ! barun ghoṛa bimár hai. Bápre ! bápre ! kaisa húa ? Main kya jánta ! Jald dauro—bázár-se julláb ki dawa maṅgá,-do. Tábidár chaprási bhej-dega. Nahín ! tum sust ádmi ! is darmiyán meṅ, ghoṛa mar-já,ega ; khud dauro ; dúr !

EXERCISE NO. 22.

Hey you ! what are you up to ? (= doing.) Nothing. Then, what is all this noise ? We are only chatting among ourselves. Don't chatter in the verandah ; by reason of the noise, I cannot work. Who are these men ? They are cultivators. What do they want ? They say that owing-to (se) the oppression of their (own) landlord, their crops have been attached ; they desire justice. But is their story true ; God knows ! as a rule, there is some truth and some falsehood on both sides. Certainly these poor people won't tell lies. Your Honour has been six months in the country and knows everything ; but (your) slave's opinion is that whoever believes only half¹ will do good justice.¹

¹ From 'nisf,' half, is derived 'insáf,' justice ; also 'Munsif,' a dispenser of justice, a 'Moonsiff' (Anglo-Hind).

ELEVENTH LESSON.

ARRANGEMENT OF WORDS IN A SENTENCE.

The arrangement of words in a sentence is left a good deal to taste, subject to one fixed rule that your Verb must come at the end of the clause or sentence; and if there be an auxiliary, it is the last word. You cannot divide the parts of a verb; making such a sentence as ‘He had, after some delay, made a full confession.’ All the component parts of a compound tense come together.

2. Taking the ordinary words and clauses which occur in a sentence, the following order will be found idiomatic:—Nominative, preceded by the qualifying word, or words, if any; Object, purpose, intention, or the like; ..Dative. ..Adverbial, or participle clause;...Accusative; ... Verb. Ex.:—Us kharáb ádmi-ne—nuksán pahuncháne ke matlab —mujh ko—nibháyat baland awáz se—gáli di thi, That bad man, with the object of causing (me) loss, to me, in a very loud voice, gave abuse. If you wish to state the place, you might say, e.g. ‘bázár men’ before ‘gáli.’ The time would probably stand first of all: as, áj, din-ko, tén pahar ke waqt, (us kharáb ádmi, &c.,) to-day, by day, at the time of three-watches, i.e., at three o’clock this afternoon, &c.

3. INTERROGATION is expressed in several ways—

1st.—By the mere inflection of the voice; the words remaining in the same order as in an affirmative sentence.

Ex. :—Tum nahín jánte, kih, &c. Don't you know that &c.?

2nd.—By the use of a plain interrogative word. Ex. :—kyún deri karte ho? Why are you delaying? why are you so slow?

3rd.—By first naming a thing, and then asking about it; as often occurs in French. Ex. :—Ap ka mizáj—kaisa hai? Your Honor's health—how is it?

[Hai ádmi házir? and the like, are not Hindústání.]

SOME INTERROGATIVE WORDS.

Kab, when? Kahan, where? Kidhar, whither? Kyún, why? Kaun, who? Kya, which? what? Kab-tak, how long? Ka, eber; ka, e dafah, how often? Kis-wáste, on what account: why? Kyún-kar; kis-tarah; kaisa, in what manner; how? Kitna, or ketna, Plur.: kitne, or ketne, how many? how much?

ru; chihrah; múñh, ¹ the face.	jíbh; zabán, ² the tongue.
pesháni, the forehead.	jabra, the jaw.
abru, the eyebrow.	lab, a lip.

² Zabán means also 'a language.'

ṭhuddi ; zanakh, the chin.
kán, an ear.

gardan, the neck.
gala or gula, the throat.
hatheli, the palm.
ungli, a finger.
nákhun, a nail.

chháti, the breast.
sínah, the bosom.
godi, the lap.
pánjar, the side.
píth, the back.
chútar, the buttocks.

ṭáng, the leg.
jángh, the thigh.
pindli, the calf.

pá,ṇ, the foot.
ṭalwa, the sole of the foot.
eṛi, the heel.
pá,ṇ ki ungli, a toe.
haḍḍi ; hár, a bone.
panjari, a rib.
khún ; lohu, blood.
pit, bile.
pasínah, perspiration.
dam² ; sáṇs, the breath.
rag ; nas, a vein.
maghz ; dimágh, the brain.
dil, the heart.
peṭ ; shikam, the belly.
midah, the stomach.
phepre, the lungs.
tilli, the spleen.
gúda, the marrow.
chamra, *the skin.*³

² Not to be confounded with ‘dum,’ the tail of an animal.

³ Means also ‘leather.’

TWELFTH LESSON.

NUMERATION.

The first things to learn here are the following fractions :—

pá, o, a quarter.

ádha, a half.

aṛhá, i, two and a half.

also these :—

sáṛhe, one half MORE than the unit named.

sawa, one quarter MORE than the unit named.

1. paune, one quarter LESS than the unit named.

2. Then learn these words :—

ganḍa, a bundle of 4.

hazár, a thousand.

kori, or kuri, a score.

3. There are separate words from 'one' to 'one hundred,' but it will be sufficient for you to learn the words only from 'one' to 'twenty.' They are as follows :—

1, ek.

8, áṭh

15, pandrah.

2, do.

9, nau.

16, solah.

3, tín.

10, das.

17, satrah.

4, chár.

11, igyárah,

18, aṭhára.

5, páñch.

12, bárah.

19, unís.

6, chhah.

13, terah.

20, bís.

7, sát.

14, chaudah.

4. The other numbers up to 100 will be found in Appendix No. I, page 103. With the materials now given you, you can express any number, in a perfectly idiomatic way: by using karors, lákhs, thousands, hundreds, scores, and units. Ex.:—557 = five hundred, two scores, and¹ seventeen, páñch sau, do kúri, satrah. 9,991 = nau hazár, nau sau, char kúri, unís.

5. The ORDINAL numbers are as follows:—Paihle, first; dúśra, or, doyum, second; tísra, third; chautha, fourth. These, when ending in 'a,' follow the rules of ka, ke, ki. After 'chautha, fourth,' the ordinals are got by adding 'wán' to the cardinals. 'The sixth' is, for euphony's sake, 'chhatwán.'

6. 'Once,' 'twice,' 'thrice,' &c., are expressed by 'ek dafah,' 'do dafah,' 'tín dafah,' and so on.

7. 'A,' in such phrases as 'a yard,' 'a foot' is expressed by the word 'fi,' or by 'ek ek' Ex.:—fi—or ek ek—gaz kitne rúpae hongē? how many rupees a yard.

8. As there are sixteen annas in a Rúpi, 16 is much used to give the idea of a 'whole,' 'a unit,' or 'full quantity,' of anything; "eight annas" meaning a half; 'four annas,' a quarter; two annas, an eighth, and so on. Confer the words 'quadroon,' 'octoroon.'

¹ 'AND' is never expressed with numerals.

THIRTEENTH LESSON.

TIME.

The ENGLISH MONTHS are sure to be known by all your servants, and are also known to natives generally. But you must catch the pronunciation in use in your locality.

The following is pretty near the ordinary pronunciation :—

Janři.	Julai.
Fabri.	Agast. ¹
Marich.	Saptambar.
Apríl.	Oktobar.
Mai.	Navambar.
Jún.	Dichambar.

2. The DAYS OF THE WEEK are not known by their English names.

The names most commonly used are these—

Itwár ; rabibár, Sunday.

Sombár ; pír ka roz, Monday.

Mangal, Tuesday.

Budh, Wednesday.

Brihaspat ; biphe, Thursday.

Shukrbár ; jumah, Friday.

Sanichar ; sanibár, Saturday.

3. The HOURS are now-a-days always counted by the English watch when possible. But the native division assigns so much time to the day-light, and so much to the night. The reckoning is by the “pahar,” (pronounced in Lower Bengal, ‘prohor,’) which consists of three English hours; four “pahars” being counted to the day, and four to the night. Then the word ‘ghaṇṭa’—which means a bell, or gong—is used to mean ‘an hour,’ as in many parts of India a gong is struck after each hour. Again, there is a word ‘ghari,’ which is said to be equal to about one-third of an English hour; but is often used very vaguely; as indeed all words of time are, when not referred to a watch or clock. ‘Ghari’ is also used for the English ‘clock,’ or ‘watch’ itself.

4. ‘The clock’ is known to all servants as well as to superior natives. The verb ‘bajna’ (intr.) to sound; or the verb ‘bolna’ (intr.) to say, is used with reference to a clock or watch. If you will study the following clauses you will be master of ‘the clock’ in Hindústání :—

kya baja hai, what has sounded? what o'clock is it?

do baje haiṅ, two have sounded; two o'clock.

aṛhá,i baje haiṅ, a half more than two has sounded.

sawa do baje haiṅ, a quarter more than two has sounded.

paune do baje haiṅ, a quarter less than two has sounded.

do baj-ke, his mínaṭ, two having sounded, twenty minutes (more have passed), twenty minutes past 2.

his mínaṭ ke baad, do bajega, after twenty minutes, two will strike; twenty minutes to 2. Or this may be expressed thus:—his mínaṭ kam, do baje, (by) 20 minutes less, two o'clock.

derh baje, half past one. . . . aṛhá,i baje, half past two.

ka,e baje? at what o'clock? tén baje, at three o'clock.

5. Time in a vague sense is expressed by an accusative without government, as in English. Ex:—guzashte sál, last year ; pari roz, on the following day.

6. When precision is aimed at, 'at,' or 'by,' (of time) is translated 'ko,' or 'ke waḳt' Ex:—Āj, shám-ko, to-day, at evening ; this evening. Rát ke waḳt, by night, at night.

7. 'Ago,' 'since,' 'for,' are translated by 'se,' or by 'hú,a' in agreement. When 'since' can be resolved into that I have not, you must use a negative. Ex. :—Tín baras hú,e, main Kalkatte meṇ raha tha, three years ago, I was living in Calcutta. Kal se, main is-ko khojta hūṇ, I am searching for it since yesterday. Chár mahínoṇ-se, wuh bímár hai, he is (has been) sick for four months. Páñch barsoṇ se, main-ne apna watan nahíṇ dekha hai, since five years, I have not seen my native country, or, in good English, it is five years since I have seen my native country.

8. In naming a date (táríkh, fem.) you use 'ko.' Ex. :—Navambar mahíne ki páñch táríkh ko, Kalkatte já,úṅga, I shall go to Calcutta on date 5. of the month November.

9. 'Meṇ' is also often used for 'in,' or 'during,' expressed or understood.

10. In using the numbers, 'and' is always left untranslated. Ex. :—five hundred AND forty-three, páñch sau, do kúri tín.

EXERCISE No. 24.

Her ear is small. Her breast is white Her cheek is red. Her heart is light. His jaw is large. There are gloves on her hand. There was much perspiration. His shoulder is strong. Give me one quarter. He has bought fifteen horses. How much has he given for them? Rs. 9,786. Five hundred and forty-two men were present. Give me $2\frac{3}{4}$. He is first, and she is second. I spoke to him three times. This year is hot. This year, the rains are good. To-day at one pahar, I shall go to Calcutta. At what o'clock did he go out? At a quarter to three.

FOURTEENTH LESSON.

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE PRONUNCIATION given in this book is the purest known ; but you must not expect that here, any more than in England, pronunciation is everywhere the same ; or even the same in one locality, as uttered by educated and by uneducated people. Thus you will often hear ‘z’ and “j” confounded with each other ; and will even learn to know “nazdík,” under the metamorphosis of ‘nagích.’

2. You must also remember that there is such a thing as ACCENT in addition to ‘quantity.’ Thus a long ‘a’ at the end of a word will be sounded less strongly than the same elsewhere.

3. Besides quantity and accent, there is also the CADENCE of a sentence. This, and the appropriate action of hands, face and body, can be acquired only by imitation.

4. THE GREAT FAULT OF EUROPEANS—next to leaving out the non-initial ‘h’—is “clipping” their words as they speak, ignoring double consonants, and forgetting that Hindústáni, when well spoken, is a language of vowels and double consonants, and must be vocalized like Italian. It is miserable to hear such sounds as hamreh garry low,¹ pinnykypanny do, eggy barrow,² sarry das bajj, and so on.

No doubt, for ‘áge barhá, o.’

4. In concluding the instructions of this little book, a few matters which have not found place in the earlier lessons will be gathered up here.

5. IDIOMS of a peculiar kind are not very numerous in the language. You have already learned (page 47) that you require 'not' in such phrases as 'wait here till I come back;' and (page 68) 'it is three years since I saw you.' Note also that words of time, measurement, quantity and so forth often stand in the accusative without any government. "Of" is not translated in such phrases as 'a cup of tea,' 'a yard of cloth,' 'a piece of bread.' The words stand in 'apposition'—ek piyálah chá,e—ek gaz kapra—ek tukra roti. In such phrases, again, as 'he fell from the wall,' the natives say, he fell from on the wall (díwár par se); also our phrase 'out of' is taken in the reversed light, and becomes 'from in.' Ex. :—lomṛi bil meṇ se nikli, the fox came out of (from inside) its hole. There is also a favourite idiom by which the pluperfect tense (with had) is used where we use a plain past. See Example, Exercise 17, page 52; and (as in many other languages), the Future Tense is often used, where, strictly speaking, the Subjunctive Mood is the correct thing. The omission of pronouns, where no ambiguity will be caused, has already been pointed out. Doubling words in order to strengthen the force is common in Hindústáni, and not unknown in English: 'My love is like the red red rose.' Ex. :—wuh achchha achchha ádmi hai, he is a very good man.

6. You will sometimes find PLURALS IN 'AN.' This is from the Persian; and occurs chiefly in words ending in—dár. It does not change in the oblique cases. Ex. :—Zamindár-án, tábidár-án, chaukídár-án, &c.

7. WÁLA-WÁLI (masc. and fem,; declined like nouns in

'a' and 'i') are very useful terminations. They are joined usually to the Nom. Sing. of a common noun, or to the inflected form of the Verbal Noun. They indicate a person connected with the thing the noun expresses, or one who does the action expressed by the verb. Ex. :—pankhá wála, a pankha-puller; roṭi-wála, a baker; machhli-wála, the fish-monger; likne-wáli, the (female) writer, and so on, ad-infinitum. They are also added to Adverbs.

8. The DEGREES OF COMPARISON are made thus :— For the comparative degree you compare the thing you are speaking of with one thing of the same kind. For the 'superlative degree,' you compare it with all conceivable things of the same kind. Your adjective has no change indicative of 'degree;' but continues to 'agree,' as usual. Ex. :—

Yih ghoṛa . . . us ghoṛe se . . . achchha hai.
This horse . . compared with that horse . . is the good one.
Yih ghoṛa . . . sab ghoṛon se . . . achchha hai.
This horse . . compared with all horses . . is the good one.

9. Occasionally you may find the Persian terminations of the comparative and the superlative degrees, viz., 'TAR' and 'TARÍN,' used with adjectives derived from the Persian language. But this is not common. The only familiar word is 'bihtar,' better; the 'positive degree' of which in Persian is 'bih,' good. Superlative, 'bihtarín.'

10. In NARRATION, you must use the same pronouns and verbs as the original speaker used : Ex. :—

Eng. :—He said he would go to Calcutta to-morrow.

Hind. :—He said, (that) 'I will go to Calcutta tomorrow.'

11. So, in sending a VERBAL MESSAGE (which you should never do if you can help it) give your messenger the very words he is to use. Ex. :—

Eng. :—Go and tell him, I can't come.

Hind. :—Go and tell him, (that) 'The Judge sáhib (or as the case may be) can't come.'

12. 'IT IS ;' 'THERE IS ;' 'THERE ARE.' These idioms do not occur in Hindústáni. The plain noun and verb only are used. Ex. :—kaun hai,? rája sáhib hai, who is it ? It is the rája sáhib. Khabardár ! ág hai, take care ! there's fire.

13. TO HAVE. There is no verb for this. You must use the verb 'to be ;' on the liber est mihi principle. Ex. :—Ham ko kuchh ummed nahín hai, I have no hope. Us ke pás bahut kitáben hai, he has many books. Us-ke do ghore hai, (his are two horses) he has two horses. When 'have' has the sense of 'get,' 'obtain,' &c. 'milna' may be used. Ex. :—Us-ko ek hukm-námah mila hai, he has, holds, has got, a pass.

14. "THANK YOU." To a servant this phrase is properly expressed by "bahut achchha ;" "achchha : " or even "bas." The last word means 'enough ;' 'that'll do.' To equals and superiors the word "shukr-guzár" (literally 'thanks-passing') should be used—by itself—on all fitting occasions.

Note.—Exaggerated civility to an inferior is regarded by him as sarcasm. As you may never use any word of abuse, a little exaggerated politeness may be used instead.

15. TO SALUTE "Salám karna ;" "salám bolna ;" "salám dena " "Salám karna " is to perform an act of salutation. "Salám bolna " and "salám dena " are about equal to each other in meaning. You will have to use them chiefly in two instances : first, as a polite mode of sending for a person : Ex. :—"kiráni bábu ko salám do" (or bolo), i.e., "give (or say) my 'salám' to the (Hindu) clerk"—the rest is elliptic ; but the clerk will understand that he is to come to you : so, secondly, when a caller sends in his card, you say "salám do ;" or "salám bolo" to the servant. He carries your salám to the caller, who comes upstairs and pays his visit, on receiving your "salám" but not before. A 'visiting-card' is ṭikāṭ (E.)

16. The PARTICIPLE "IN KE" OR "KAR," (sometimes "karke" or "karkar," all being derived from karna, sometimes only the plain stem), is much used in Hindústáni, to lead up to the principal verb—and avoid the repetition of "and" Ex. :—Yih bát bolkar chala-gaya. Having said this much (lit. this word), he went away : or, He said this much and left.

17. This little book contains none of the high-flown, and somewhat exaggerated style of phraseology which abounds in Oriental languages ; nor any of the phrases adopted from Arabic. These belong to an advanced course. You should, however, provide yourself with two phrases of a superior kind, to be used to native gentlemen of rank. They are words meaning shortly, "to arrive," and "to depart ;" and are "tashríf lána," to arrive, "tashríf lejána," to depart. Tashríf means "the honour of your presence : " the first phrase (to arrive) therefore means "to bring the honour of your presence"—and the second (to depart)—to take that honour from us. "Huzúr," is the correct word whereby to address natives of high rank. The verb will of course be in the third person plural ; and so you will say :

Huzúr kab tashríf lá,e haiñ ? = When did you arrive ?

Huzúr kab tashríf le-já,eñge ? = When do you go away ?

18. Then, the polite form by which to ask for a person's health is, 'mizáj sharíf.' To which the answer may be 'huzúr ki mihrbani se,' by Your Honour's kindness, or 'huzúr ki inayat se,' by Your Honour's favour, or 'huzúr ki du,a se,' by Your Honour's blessing, or 'shukr Khuda ka hai,' thank God,—'I am well' being understood.

19. Connected with this matter, I mention, in conclusion, that in the middle of many names of Arabic origin, you will find the syllable "ul" or "ud," occasionally "us." They all mean, "of the" and the whole name has generally a grand significance. Thus Shams-ud-dín means "The Sun of the Faith;" Siráj-ud-daulah¹, "The Lamp of the Commonwealth," and so on.

FIFTEENTH LESSON.

The difference between words given in the body of this book and words in the Glossary at the end, is that the former are words which you must know, and must learn up as soon as possible ; while among the latter, are many words which you may or may not require to use, and for which you must search if wanted.

2. The following lists—among which Exercises are placed by way of rests—complete the words which you must know. Some of the words already given are allowed to appear again here.

NOTE.

The following Extracts have been taken from several modern sources, so as to give the student good samples of Hindústáni as written and spoken at the present day. The modern style of composition is less ornate than the older style, at least, when the subject in hand is of a non-poetic kind. English words for which there are no vernacular equivalents are freely used ; and the Relative Pronoun is not unfrequently found following its antecedent as in English, e.g., 'ádmi jo,' instead of 'jo ádmi ..wuh.'

As regards further exercise in writing Hindústáni, the student cannot do better than translate these stories into English, and after some time, retranslate them into Hindústáni.

It only remains for the author to acknowledge the kindness of those gentlemen who have allowed him to make Extracts from their several Works.

A HINDÚSTĀNI READER.

I. GADHA AUR SHER.

Kisi gadhe-ko, barsāt ke mausim meṇ, charne ke waste, bāgh ki tar o tázah ghás mili ; aur píne-ko,¹ chashme ka sáf aur ṭhanḍa aur míṭha páni muyassar áya. Gadha, khá-píkar,² khúb moṭa hú,a. Usi nawáh meṇ, ek sher bhi rahta-tha. Ek din, gadha sher ke sáth khush-taba,i karne laga. Sher-ne, ná-khush ho-kar, dáṇṭ dikhá,e. Gadhe-ne, usko haṇsi samajh-kar³, aur ziyádah⁴ chheṛ-chhár shuruki.⁵ Sher-ne kaha :—‘ agar yih gustákhi, jo⁶ tu karta hai, aḳl ke sáth hoti,⁷

³ ‘Understanding laughter,’ i.e., taking it for laughter.

⁴ ‘Aur ziyádah,’ transl., still further.

⁵ Remember that ‘ki’ may be the fem. : sing. past tense, or past part. of ‘karna,’ as well as the fem. of ‘ka,’ ‘ke,’ ‘ki.’

⁶ Relative here follows antecedent, as in English ; contrary to the ordinary rule.

⁷ ‘Agar.—aḳl-ke sath hoti,’ transl., if...were along-with, i.e., accompanied with, sense, or, understanding.

to main tujh-ko zarúr saza deta ; magar, mujh-ko, teri be-wukúfi par, rahm áta hai.¹

HÁSIL :—Baré log, ahmañon ki báton par, khiyál nahín karte.²

2. MURGH AUR MOTI.

Ek murgh, bhúkh-se be-táb ho-kar, dāne ki just-o-ju men kúre ke āmbār ko³ kured-raha tha. Bahut der ke bād, nágāh, ek besh-ķimat moti nikla. Moti-ko dekh-kar, murgh-ne, barī ḥasrat ke sāth, kaha :—‘Afsos ! itni jānkani ke bād, mujh-ko mila bhi to⁴ moti—jis-se na mere dil-ko tashaffi ho sakti hai, o na meri bhúkh-ko taskín. Yih moti agar kisi jauhari ya daulatmand-ko milta, to, is ki kadar karta, aur is-ko azíz-rakhta ; lekin, mere liye, aise zor ki bhúkh men,⁵ jo,ār ya chane ka ek dānah, is-se,⁶ kahín bihtar tha.’

HÁSIL :—Numá,ish aur árá,ish ki chízen, zindagáni ki asli zarúraton men, kām nahín átín.⁷

¹ ‘Mujh-ko...rahm áta,’ to me comes compassion, i.e., I have compassion on thy, &c.

² ‘Khiyál karna’ is a verb which has to be translated according to the context. The idea is the action of the mind in connection with any subject. Here you may transl. ‘does not attach importance to.’ In other connections, it may mean ‘to remember;’ or,—with ‘nahín,’ ‘to forget;’ and so on. “Khiyál” is one’s ‘knowledge,’ ‘idea,’ ‘notion,’ on any subject.

³ ‘At,’ or, ‘in.’

⁴ Indicates a unit ; also here contempt. ‘Mujh-ko mili bhi to moti,’ ‘to me has-come-to hand this thing called a pear ;’ or ‘this wretched pearl.’

⁵ Aise zor ki bhúkh men, ‘in hunger of such force.’

⁶ ‘Than this’ (pearl).

⁷ ‘Átín’ (for áti hain’) 3rd pers. plur. pres. indic. feminine of ‘ána :’ transl. ‘Things of appearance and ornament—in life’s real necessities—are of no use.’ The agreement is ‘chízen átín (hain). See page 10, section 6.

3. PILLE AUR GADHA.

Ek kisán ke ghar-men ek gadha tha, aur ek kutiya bhi páli hū, i thi. Kutiya-ne bachche diye. Jab bachche bare hū, e, to khúb khúb khelár, i, áñ karte, aur uchhalte, kúdtē; o kisán in bachhon ki piyári piyári harkaten dekhhkar, bahut khush hota,¹ aur un-ko, apne háth-se roṭi khiláta,² aur chumkártā.³ Gadhe-ne dil men socha, kih ‘in pillon ki nisbat,⁴ main bahut kám karta hūñ; magar hamára málik in-par ziyádah muhúbání karta hai; lá, o!⁵ main bhi pillon ki tarah⁶ kúdá karūñ, tá-kih málik mujhe bhi azíz-rakhe.’

Yih soch kar, gadha, ek din, be-tarah dolatti, áñ jhárne laga. Kisán ne pahle, to, gumán kiya, kih ‘sháyad makkhiyáñ ya machchhar is-ko satáte haiñ;’ magar ákhir-ko maalúm, hū, a, kih sirf sharárat-se kúdtā hai. Tab, to, kisán-ne gadhe ki píñh men páñch, chár dandē aise zor-se lagá, e, kih úchhal kúð sab bhúl-gaya.

IIÁNIL:—Be-samajhe-bújhe⁵ kisi ki rís karna zarúr kharábi láta hai.

4. SING YA TÁNGEN.

Ek bárah-singe-ne chashmah-e-áb men apna aks dekha; to, apne síngon ki shán-o-khúbsúratí dekhhkar, bahut khush hū, a; lekin jab us-ki nazar, patli patli⁶ tángon par, pari, to kahne laga:—‘kih khuda-ne mujh-ko we bad-shakl, tángen

² ‘As compared with these pups.’

³ As interj. ‘Take it so.’ ‘So be it.’

⁴ Acc. of manner. ‘After the manner of puppies,’ or, ‘as the puppies do.’

⁵ Be-samajhe-bújhe, ‘without considering (and) understanding; heedlessly;’ ‘without thought.’

⁶ Doubling the adj. gives greater force.

kyún bakhshi haiñ, jo¹ mere síngon ki khúbsúratí-ko bhi aib lagáti haiñ.' Yih dil meñ soch-kar raha tha; kih² itne meñ. ko, i shikári á-pahuncha. 14. KHÚRSHÍDI BEGAM.

The following extract is taken from an excellent modern novel called "Fisánah-e-Khúrshídi," i.e., "The Story of Khúrshídi"—a Muḥam-madan lady of rank. The author is the well-known Saiyid Afzal-ud-dín Aḥmad. In this book, English as well as native characters are introduced. It recommends itself by the simplicity of its style, by its freedom from all coarseness, and by the attempt which it makes to render Natives and Europeans better acquainted with each other than they at present are. This extract consists mainly of a dialogue between the English lady of the piece (Miss Thompson) and Khúrshídi's father.

² 'Milna' is here used as a fully personal verb. In this sense it means 'to be mixed up with' or associated with, 'to be allied to' or the like. Translate, 'such a girl is sure to have a good destiny before her,' but don't fail to analyse the clause literally.

³ Persian superlative ; see page 74, section 9.

GLOSSARY OF USEFUL WORDS.

PART I.

HINDUSTANI-ENGLISH.

NOTE.

It is hoped that the following Glossary contains every word which occurs in the Vocabularies, Exercises, and "The Reader,"—except those intentionally omitted, namely, English words which have crept into the language, and the 'numerals' which are given on pages 64 and 103. Numerals which occur in the Exercises or "The Reader" are, however, given.

There are also thousands of words given which do not occur in the earlier part of the book.

The following Table shows the sequence of the letters, not only as the Head-Letters of the Glossary; but throughout the columns. Thus all words in 'Kat' are exhausted before you find 'Kat,' &c., and so with other letters which are different and yet similar, as 'd;' and "ḍ;" 'h,' and 'ḥ.'

TABLE.

A.	B.	CH.	D.	Ḍ.	E.
F.	G.	GH.	H.	Ḥ.	I.
J.	K.	K.	KH.	L.	M.
N.	O.	P.	R.	R.	S.
SH.	T.	T.	U.	V.	W.
Y.	Z.

The general arrangement is to give the shortest word—Noun, Adjective or other word—as a ‘Head-word;’ and to range under it, longer words connected with the same subject. The ‘head-word’ is not, as a rule, reprinted; but is represented by a short line. Ex.:—Dúkán (f.), a shop. —dár, a shop-keeper. —dári, shop-keeping. Occasionally, the ‘head-word’ changes before additions can be made. In such cases the short line represents the ‘head-word’ down to the last permanent consonant, which consonant is repeated in that part of the new word which is printed. Ex.:—Azurdah, grieved. —dagi, grief.

Contractions are used as follows:—

- i. The ordinary grammatical ones; as ‘Adj.’ Adjective; ‘Adv.’ Adverb, &c. ‘Sing.’ Singular; ‘Pl.’ Plural; ‘trans.’ transitive; ‘intr.’ intransitive, and so on.
- ii. Compound Verbs ending in ‘karna’ and ‘dena’ are very common. So these auxiliaries are shown by –‘k’ and ‘d’ respectively.
- iii. When the meaning of words following a ‘head-word’ is easily to be understood from the English of the ‘head-word,’ the words which follow are left untranslated. They are marked ‘A.’ if Adjectives; ‘Adv.’ if Adverbs; ‘N.’ if Nouns; and ‘V.’ if Verbs. Ex.:—Azurdah, grieved, N. —dagi, which must mean ‘grief.’ Fikr, anxiety; care. A. —mand. Shuru, a beginning. V. —k.
- iv. (p.) ... indicates a Persian word not in use in its simple form; but common in derivatives from it,

- v. 'Persian' ...indicates that a phrase, though Persian, is in common use in Hindústání.
- vi. (m.) Stands for masculine ; (f.) for feminine ; (a.) shows that a word (e g., light) is an adjective, not a noun ; (n.) means that a word (e.g., light) is a noun and not an adjective ; (n.a.), means that the word is both a noun and an adjective.
- vii. (M.)...indicates that the word is to be used only concerning things Muhammadan.
- viii. (H.)...the same as regards things Hindu.
- ix. (L.B.)...means that the word is current chiefly or wholly, in Lower Bengal only.
- x. (E.)...Stands for English ; 'compos,' for composition ; 'Lit.' for literally ; 'fig.' for figuratively.
- xi. The long word 'Muhammadan' is generally contracted Muham.

Masculine Nouns ending in any of the feminine terminations are marked (m.)

Feminine Nouns ending in anything except the recognised feminine terminations are marked (f.) See Page 8, Section 13.

GLOSSARY OF USEFUL WORDS

PART II.

ENGLISH-HINDÚSTĀNĪ.

NOTE.

THE contractions used in the English-Hindústání part of this Glossary are the same as those used in the first part, with one addition, viz. (v. n.), which means 'Verbal Noun.' See page 15. Sect. 17.

The 'head-word' is generally the shortest word from which longer words are derived. Thus under 'Art' you will find 'Artificer.'

Always look for the Noun first, (if there be a noun,) e.g., for 'Advice,' not for 'Advise.'

As, within the space available, all synonyms cannot be given, if you cannot find the precise word wanted, try another of a similar meaning—Note also that as familiar words are given, you should look for such; as for 'Delay,' not for 'Procrastination.'

A double use is made of the short line; first, associated with English, it represents the head English word, (or so much of it as is wanted,) e.g., 'accurate,' '-acy; secondly, associated with the Hindústání, it refers to the preceding word or words, e.g., 'affirmation,' iḡrār; izhár. V. -k., means that you may use 'karna' with both 'iḡrār' and 'izhár,' for the English 'to affirm.' When one verb is not applicable to a string of nouns, the string is broken, the verb applicable to the nouns up to that point is shown within brackets; the nouns are then resumed; other appropriate verbs being given in their proper places.

English within brackets indicates the precise shade of meaning of the word being dealt with.

Nouns of an abstract sense do not often occur in the common Hindústáni. Few therefore are given here. The abstract idea of an act is generally expressed by the Verbal Noun, e.g., chup-rahna bihtar hai bak-bak karne-se, "silence is better than chattering ;" and the abstract idea of a person is expressed by a clause with 'jo'—or by the humble 'wála,' e.g., Jo insáf karta hai, wuh Khuda-ko pasand hai, "The Doer of Justice is pleasing to God."

¹ The real pronunciation of this difficult word is that of a short, closed Italian 'o' in the first syllable; very near the 'o,' in 'oration,' 'oku.' In Hindústáni 'ó,' 'ú,' 'v,' and 'w' are written with one and the same character. Short 'o s' do occur in Hindústáni, and also short 'e s;' whatever the Grammarians may say. Thus you will often hear mōharrir, Mōhammad; mēhtar, mēhrbán, &c., &c., and these sounds cannot be said to be wrong. See page 47, Note ii.

Note.—Many of the words beginning with ‘un’ negative, are not given. You may turn the sentence into one with ‘not’ e.g. this is untrue = ‘this is not true’—yih sach nahīṁ hai; or secondly, you may prefix ‘ná’ to almost any adjective; and ‘be’ to almost any noun: e.g. ná-pasand, ná-maalūm, ná-durust;—be-hosh, be-aḳl, be-sharm. ‘Lá’ ‘ghair’ and ‘kam’ are also negative prefixes, but they are appropriated to certain words, e.g. lá-wáris, without an heir; lá-jawáb, without an excuse, ghair-házir, absent. Many words of Sanskrit origin (of which only a few have been given) take ‘a’ privative, (as in Greek,) or ‘ni,’ e.g. a-dharm, injustice; nir-buddhi, senseless, stupid.

¹ This word will remind you (later on) of the beautiful song, 'tárah ba tárah, nau ba nau,' where occur the line and refrain.

'Bádah-i-dil-kusha bijo—

Tárah ba tárah, nau ba nau—'

'Bring forth the heart-expanding wine—fresh and afresh.'

² This word is nearly equivalent to 'and.' It is used of what is closely connected with a thing already named ; as 'a case wit (or and) its evidence.' See page 118. for two illustrations of this.

GENERAL INDEX.

NOTE.

A single figure, (as '23.') indicates the page. When that figure is followed by a comma and another figure, then the first figure indicates the page, and the second, the section on that page. A second or third figure not referring to a Section, is separated from the preceding figure by a semi-colon
